How the Great Holiday of the World Passed Off in Richmond.

Accidents.

Christmas day of 1896 has come and gone, and nothing but memories remain of a day that was pleasantly and in most cases, profitably spent, though there were, of course, a number of people who participated too freely in the beverages that are as free as the air we breathe at this season.

The weather was delightful, clear, cool, and bracing, and everybody felt stimulated and encouraged by the sunshine to come out of doors and fill their lungs with ozone, taking deep draughts of the delicious air.

Early in the morning began the explosion of fire-crackers, of all sizes, and there was little sleep for anybody after 1 o'clock A. M.

Children thronged the streets and filled the porches of their homes, laughing and screaming in their glee over the presents they had received, and showing them to each other in fond pride, and making every bit of noise that was possible with horns, trumpets, fire-crackers, torpedoes, and drums.

The streets were thronged with people, dressed in their best Sunday clothes, and there was a steady stream of promenaders up and down Broad Street, from early morning till late evening, everybody smiling and happy, and exchanging friendly Christmas greetings with each other.

Children thronged the streets and filled the porches of their homes, laughing and screaming in their glee over the presents they had received, and showing them to each other in fond pride, and making every bit of noise that was possible with horns, trumpets, fire-crackers, torpedoes, and drums.

The churches that were open for Divine service were thronged with worshippers, especially those of the Roman Catholic and Episcopal faith, who at other places of religious worship there were appropriate services to the day.

At St. Paul's church Bishop John H. Newton preached the sermon at the 11 o'clock service and was heard with delight by the congregation, a very large one.

Under the direction of Rev. Dr. Carmichael and Prof. Rembarth, the organist, the elaborate musical service already published, was excellently rendered by the vested choir.

A large congregation assembled at 11 o'clock at the Methodist church at 11 o'clock, the occasion being Union Christmas services of the Methodist churches in Richmond district located in Richmond.

The Rev. Dr. James V. Fair was the preacher at the Church of the Covenant at 11 o'clock A. M. Christmas day, taking for his text the words of St. John Baptist, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord."

At the Centenary Methodist church Rev. Dr. Paul Whitehead delivered a fine sermon before a congregation which crowded the church, and the music by the excellent choir of the church was finely rendered.

Christmas day in Virginia surely would be as naught without reunions of families at friends' homes, from far distant places, and uniting together to eat, drink and be merry and to exchange glad wishes for merry Christmas and many of them, and for the New Year's coming days, best happiness, and hopes for prosperity.

Friday last was no exception to the rule, for all over Richmond there were just such parties gathered together, for some of their members perhaps the last time.

Everywhere in homes, rich or humble, among the high or lowly, or even in prison cells there were evidences of good cheer, supplied in the latter case by kindly angels, who were to be seen in the authorities of the State or city, who feeling the touch of the Divine nature for once at least in the year, temporarily relax severity of discipline with their prisoners and their families.

Many an old quarrel or misunderstanding was settled Friday and hands were clasped that long has been strangers to the other's touch, "so hallowed and so gracious is the time that comes wherein only of hearts, with great gladness, were."

Fortunately the fire record, excepting a few trifling ones noted elsewhere, is barren of all serious conflagration. A peculiar feature of this Christmas day everybody else in the number of blazing bonfires that were plentiful at corners along Grace, Franklin, and Main streets, especially and that no more fire occurred considering the vast showers of sparks floating in the air was marvellous.

ACCIDENTS OCCURRED TO MISS FANNIE McCURDY, a well-known and popular Church Hill young lady.

Accidents occurred to Miss Fannie McCurdy, a well-known and popular Church Hill young lady. A cracker exploded in her face, badly burning it. Some of the burning powder flew in her eyes. Dr. Virgilus Harrison was called immediately and rendered the necessary medical attention. It is not known, as yet, whether or not her sight will be permanently impaired.

A young man named Thomas Beale, living on Church Hill, was also badly injured in the eye by the premature explosion of a fire-cracker.

ONLY A FEW DRUNKS. There was not as much disorder in the city on Christmas Day, as has been the case for years past. Nothing like the number of "drunks" were reported, and the police were not as busy running in citizens, as they have been accustomed to do on the great day of eating and punch.

At the first station, in which district is located a large number of the small groggeries, the number of drunken men arrested, was not over fifteen. In the second district, which is known as the "Tenderloin," there were more intoxicated people to handle than in both the others together, the total being twenty-two. The third station had only four registered on the book.

This goes to show that there was less money in the possession of the drinking people, or that the prohibitionists had gotten in some good work.

Christmas day was a day of gladness in the penitentiary. All work was suspended and the prisoners spent the day in the various courts, eating, drinking, and smoking of various kinds, apples, cakes, and sweets of several sorts. Many of them were visited by their friends, and the inmates for a time forgot their chains, for some were reported sick yesterday.
